What are we looking for?

The workshops at the Global Issues Convention 2024 will provide you with a unique opportunity to reflect on issues that concern you in your research projects, together with international researchers from different projects.

With this call, we are looking for exciting workshops

- on topics within the three project families Heritage, Mobility and Pandemics,
- on cross-cutting issues such as Interdisciplinarity, Transdisciplinarity, North-South-Collaborations or any other topic that is important to you.

The workshops will take place in parallel in three time slots of 1.5 - 2 hours each on November 20/ 21, 2024.

The starting point for the workshops should always be one or more questions that you would like to discuss with the workshop participants. You should briefly introduce these questions. Then tap into the potential of your workshop participants. Ask them about their knowledge, perspectives and experiences! Identify similarities and differences and discuss controversial issues. Feel free to use creative methods, such as brainstorming, drawings or partner interviews. Finally, summarise and visualise the key findings.

Please apply to lead a workshop with the following form until April 1, 2024.

Up to two applications per person can be submitted. The descriptions of the accepted workshops will be compiled in a detailed programme for the participants of the convention.

We are looking forward to many applications from both Principal Investigators and Early Career Researchers!
